Governor Thomas H. Kean has signed legislation which amends the law governing penalties for pedestrian and bicycle law violations by juveniles.

The bill, S-653, sponsored by State Senator Frank X. Graves, D-Passaic, sets a penalty of a warning or a $10 fine for juvenile offenders who are found guilty of pedestrian or bicycle law violations. Under the terms of legislation creating the Family Court, juvenile offenders now appear in Municipal Court for those type of violations. However, an unforeseen result of this law was that juveniles were thus subjected to penalties set out in Title 39 (motor vehicle statutes). The minimum penalty for most Title 39 violations is $50.

Although there were few convictions under the law, the theoretical result was that eight-year-olds who ran a stop sign on their bicycle would be subject to $50 fines plus court costs in Municipal Court.

The Governor also signed the following bills:

A-1138/S-1212, sponsored by Assemblyman Robert D. Franks, R-Union and State Senator Richard J. Codey, D-Essex, which abolishes the Controlled Dangerous Substances Registry in the Department of Health and requires the State Bureau of Identification, operated by the Division of State Police, which keeps identical records, to provide CDS information to the courts, prosecutors and probation officers who request it. The CDS registry kept records of adult CDS convictions and conditional discharges.

S-39, sponsored by State Senator Laurence Weiss, D-Middlesex, which exempts the annual appropriations bill from the review process of the Capital Budgeting and Planning Commission.
